

The PIKO and Pueo Scholars Title III grants, and, the Center for Teaching and Learning Excellence brings you

PILI 'ĀINA

Monday, August 17, 2015
from 8:30am - 4:00pm

This is an opportunity to have fun learning together about the people, culture and lands that surround our campus. Pili 'Āina is limited to 60 participants at UH West O'ahu.

Sign up at <https://goo.gl/hpTFzS>
for priority registration by July 31, 2015

From the Chancellor
Aloha UHWO Faculty and Staff,

Once again, we are kicking off the academic year with an opportunity to learn about the West O'ahu 'āina, our local community, and spend time together. Participants at last year's Pili 'Āina event were excited by the knowledge gained about people and place.

As a way to start the semester with connections and local knowledge, I encourage you to attend the 2015 UH West O'ahu Pili 'Āina.

LEARN

about the local area with a narrated tour by local Hawaiian cultural expert Shad Kane. We will explore a different area this year, with a focus on the local moku (land district) and the importance of the ahupua'a (land division or watershed).

VISIT

Ka'ala Farms Cultural Learning Center in Wai'anae Valley where they will share how ancestral knowledge is being passed on to youth through their community programs and MA'O farms, and sustainable lifestyles.

ENJOY LUNCH

and learn about new programs for student engagement and opportunities to connect academic programs with the local Hawaiian community.

WORK TOGETHER

and learn about the sea, the land, the local culture, and the significance of the ocean to Native Hawaiian culture.

UNIVERSITY of HAWAII
WEST OAHU

Any questions please contact
Brenda Machosky at ctle@hawaii.edu